

Associate Professor, Team Scientist

Department of Psychiatry and Behavioral Sciences

Northwestern University/Feinberg School of Medicine

The Department of Psychiatry and Behavioral Sciences is seeking an Associate Professor on our Team Scientist research track to join the faculty of a strong, multidisciplinary program in a medical center academic department. The candidate will join a rich, collaborative environment with other clinicians and scientists in the Feinberg School of Medicine and throughout the University. The individual should have a doctorate in Clinical Psychology or related field, and experience in childhood trauma, including trauma assessment, complex trauma, resiliency, and child welfare research and evaluation. The individual should also have a track record of successful grant funding and experience with training and implementation of trauma-focused practices and establishing and supporting trauma-informed systems. The individual will be expected to lead the Department's efforts related to the developmental effects of childhood trauma as a faculty member within the Mental Health Services & Policy Program. The position will be a full-time appointment with the rank of Associate Professor in the non-tenure track. Start date is negotiable. Position remains open until filled. Salary will be commensurate with experience. In order to ensure full consideration, applications must be received by May 1, 2017.
